18 [*]	MR TITTERTON: Sir, that notice disclosed that this

 $3\ \text{of}\ 140$ Transcript produced by Merrill Corporation

1	MR STACK: No. I should say that I'm instructed by
2	Matthews Folbigg Solicitors. We've discussed
3	that issue and we presently hold the view that
4	there is no conflict that would prevent me from
5	appearing today.
6	MR TITTERTON: Thank you. I direct that this
7	examination be recorded. Mr Kukulovski, a record
8	will be made of this examination and the record
9	will be put in writing. If it is put in 10	writing - when it is put in writing you may make
11	a written request for a copy of the transcript
2	and it will be made available to you free of
3	charge, but subject to confidentiality conditions
4	that I will be imposing in relation to it. When
15	it's put in writing I'll ask you or another staff
16	member will ask you to read it, correct it, sign
7	it and return it to us.
8	Sir, under section 21(3) of the ASIC Act you
9	must answer all questions put to you by myself or
20	any other investigator that are relevant to the
21	matters we're discussing today.
22	I now need to inform you about two types of
23	privilege you can claim. One is what we lawyers
24	call legal professional privilege and the other
25	is the privilege against self-incrimination and
26	exposure to a penalty.
27	In relation to the first, legal professional
28	privilege, you can assume that I will not

1	intentionally and I do not propose to ask any
2	questions which will infringe upon your right to
3	claim legal professional privilege. I will not
4	be asking you and I'm not entitled to ask you
5	about the content of any advice Mr Stack has
6	given to you and I don't mean to do so
7	intentionally. I may ask you about legal advice
8	or the fact of obtaining legal advice by
9	Jirsch Sutherland or you during the course of the 10	liquidation. Again, I'm not entitled to know the
11	content of the advice, I don't wish to know it,
12	but it may be relevant for me to know whether or
13	in fact you obtained legal advice.
14	Just to reiterate that, you're not obliged
15	to answer a question to the extent that the
16	answer would disclose information that's covered
17	by a valid claim of legal professional privilege.
18	If you do make that claim, certainly be guided by
19	Mr Stack. You may need to provide us with
20	sufficient information to allow us to make an
21	informed decision about whether that claim can be
22	supported. Do you understand that, sir.
23	MR KUKULOVSKI: Yes.
24	MR TITTERTON: For today's purposes the more
25	important privilege I need to warn you about or
26	remind you of is that provided by section 68 of
27	the ASIC Act. Section 68 of the ASIC Act
28	provides that if a proper claim of privilege is

1	made before making a statement, the statement
2	cannot be admitted against you in subsequent
3	criminal proceedings or proceedings to impose a
4	penalty, other than in proceedings in respect of
5	the falsity of the statement itself. This
6	section does not apply to certain proceedings for
7	the imposition of a non-monetary penalty. Those
8	proceedings are specified in section 1349 of the
9	Corporations Act and examples include court or
10	administrative proceedings to ban a person from
11	managing a corporation or from providing
12	financial services.
13	If you wish to claim the benefit of
14	section 68 of the ASIC Act for an answer to a
15	question that might tend to incriminate you or
16	expose you to a penalty, it will be sufficient if
17	you say the word "privilege" before giving the
18	answer. You cannot make a blanket claim for
19	privilege for all answers and if you wish to
20	claim the privilege, you must do so for each
21	answer. Do you understand that, sir?
22	MR KUKULOVSKI: Yes, I do.
23	MR TITTERTON: Would you like to read section 68 of
24	the ASIC Act or section 1349 of the Corporations
25	Act or take any further advice from Mr Stack?
26	MR KUKULOVSKI: No, that's fine for now.
27	MR TITTERTON: Thank you. Under section 22 of the
28	ASIC Act, I can and I will make confidentiality
